MEMORIAL DAY

We salute all those who served Freedom

We pay tribute to our honored dead who served our country nobly to preserve the freedom that we enjoy today. They will never be forgotton. In the battle of life and on our battlefields, those whom we honor guarded the ideals of justice, liberty and the opportunity of free men to pursue happiness. This is the never ending battle. We must alway be vigilant in its cause.

welcomed those present. The invocation was by Mrs. Banks.

Mrs. Alden Kinney, chairman of the scholarship committee, presented a $200. college scholarship to Miss Roberta Turner and a $100. nursing scholarship to Miss Gail Liberty. Both girls are seniors at Old Rochester Regional High School. Miss Turner will attend Boston University in the fall and Miss Liberty, Beverly Hospital School of Nursing, Beverly, Mass. Assisting Mrs. Kinney on the scholarship committee were Mrs. Charles Mac Lauchlin and Mrs. William Walsh.

Miss Edith Peterson, delegate, gave an interesting and detailed report of the annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs in Swampscott.

The annual reports given showed the club to have been very active in the past year. The money for the scholarships was raised by holding a fashion show, rummage sale, weekly bridge parties and a dessert games party.

which are built into the space craft. The test pilot astronauts have to take the theories into space and put them to the test of flight so that the engineering teams can know what does or does not work in actual practice. Much does not work as proved by this week's cliff hanger by Scott Carpenter when people had a 40-minute period to wonder whether he had survived reentry in a capsule which required plenty of attention from the pilot to save it from disaster in flight. These miscalculations and breakdowns are all part of any new machine and a completely normal part of the process of development. Perfection is not achieved on the first try but is a step by step affair.

The sneering Titov from Russia, who finds this program to be far less than the claimed Russian perfect flights, would do well to study the development of the airplane. If Titov is not an actor who has learned his cosmonaut role, then he is a lousy test pilot. If Wilbur and Orville Wright and other pioneers had been completely satisfied with the first flight, then one man, powered gliders would be the airplane of today. It took a lot of failure to make a modern aircraft. Titov, if he actually was in space, learned nothing for his engineers out of a perfect flight in which his proudest boast was that he overslept for 15 minutes. If this is success among the supermen, then give us more of the faulty, faltering orbits that add to the knowledge of puny mortals. The Russians have achieved the ultimate on the first try. Good for them. Sooner or later they have to move the product out of the ads and into the showroom where it will have to compete with the United States product already on display. Then, and only then, can the claims be measured against the performance. Then, and only then, can we separate the men from the method actors.

If you could see, as we so often do, the readiness and willingness of people to respond in time of need, we know your faith in humanity would be strengthened.

We have occasion to call frequently for assistance. Cars are needed. Musicians are requested. Ministers are called upon. Pallbearers are asked to serve. And we can't remember when such a request has been refused.

Scott Carpenter is a man. His flight was an exceedingly difficult one because of the number of troubles which developed during it. The fact that he was able to correct them, to complete the planned three orbits and bring the data back safely makes Americans proud. No wonder Glenn had tears in his eyes as he hugged Scott Carpenter. The strain of the wait to learn his fate left us all shaken. Titov said that he saw no sign of God on his trip into space. Millions, all over the world, disregarded this alleged evidence as they offered up prayers for the safe return of Scott Carpenter.

Road, Mattapoisett, on her recent trip to Florida which turned out to be a cooperative venture with three passengers sharing the journey.

Accompanying Marjorie, as she is better known among her friends and auction followers, were Miss Caroline Bowditch of Boston and a Mattapoisett Summer resident, who went to the home of the Rev. Plinette Allen, in St. Petersburg, as her house guest. Rev. Allen was Miss Bowditch's Sunday School teacher in Boston in her girlhood days, and is an occasional visitor in Mattapoisett in the Summer.

Arthur Owen of 68 Hillman Street, New Bedford, went along to see his brother, Milton, a resident of St. Petersburg, whom he hadn't seen in 38 years. And the third passenger, Mrs. Lottie Hanschka of Rockaway, New Jersey, took accomodations at the Carr Hotel in St. Petersburg for the two weeks. Mrs. Morris visited with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allan R. Howe, at 10184 66th Ave., N., in Largo, just north of St. Petersburg. Mr. Howe, a retired mail carrier from the Fairhaven Post Office, has been a resident of Florida for about eight years. Before his retirement he enjoyed a hobby of raising semi-tropical plants and flowers in his Grandview Gardens greenhouses on Sconticut Neck Road, Fairhaven, and is surrounded by them in the gardens around his new masonry home in Largo. A veteran of World War I and a patriotic American, Mr. Howe daily raises the Flag on his front yard flagpole, which was his pride and joy at Sconticut Neck, too, and his "transplanted" bubbling fountain and fish pond, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell K. Stanley. Mr. Stanley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Klubowicz of 292 Alden Road, Fairhaven, and a former reporter on the Standard Times staff. Before leaving Washington, Miss Bowditch visited a friend who was a patient at George Washington Hospital.

The entire party was entertained overnight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton E. Oliver in Fort Mill, South Carolina. Mrs. Oliver was formerly a hairdresser at a shop in her home on Scotnicut Neck Road, Fairhaven. Upon arrival in St. Petersburg, each went his own way. Miss Bowditch visited friends and left for Miami by bus, expecting to be picked up at Ashville, North Carolina, on the way back, but flew back to Boston because of an accident which hospitalized her sister, Annabelle. Mrs. Hanschka enjoyed a restful vacation, highlighted by a dinner date and visit to the Sunken Gardens with Mrs. Morris. Mr. Owen accompanied his brother on several long drives as he was about his work, but was taken ill on a boat trip to Bradenton and was hospitalized for two days before leaving for home.

Mrs. Morris' "vacation" was a whirlwind of activity which began with working on a power drill in the Hatetoquit it Hobby Shop operated by her brother and sister-in-law in Largo. The unusual name was taken from their Camp Hatetoquitit on Sconticut Neck, their "honeymoon camp" for the Summer of 1928 when they were married. Mrs. Morris took Mr. and Mrs. T. Newell Lane of St. Petersburg, Mr. Morris' uncle and aunt, to Lakeland to visit a cousin, Mrs. Dora Abare and daughter, Marjorie; visited with George Kemnitzer, father of Mrs. Marguerite Reed of North Avenue, Rochester, who winters with his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Kemnitzer, Jr. in St. Petersburg; and accompanied the Howes on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bubbins, formerly of 135 Merrimac Street, New Bedford, and now residents of Lake Seminole Resort in Largo. Drop-in visitors at the hobby shop were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard A. Sherman of Cushman Road, Rochester, parents of Allen L. Sherman of Hawthorn Street, Mattapoisett, and former residents of Fairhaven. In a surprise street meeting she came upon Mrs. A. Edith Barrows of Mattapoisett, former owner and operator of the Anchorage in Mattapoisett, who spent the Winter at a St. Petersburg hotel.

Trips to Weeki Wachee Springs and to the Horticultural Show at Pinellas County Fairgrounds, and a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hammond of Clearwater, former residents of Fairhaven, were made in the company of Mr. and Mrs. Howe. Mrs. Hammond is the sister of Mrs. Earl A. Scott of Acushnet Road, Mattapoisett. Mrs. Morris also attended two auctions, the Home Show at the Armory in St. Petersburg, went swimming at Madeira Beach and enjoyed a ferry trip to Tierra Verde and a trip to the jungle gardens and zoo.

In addition to the glass-bottomed boat ride at Silver Springs, the party, on the return trip, stopped overnight at Starke, Florida, where Mrs. Morris sang "The Palms", as soloist for the evening service at Gospel Tabernacle in Starke, the chapel which houses the 12 by 25 foot painting of "The Feast of Belshazzar", depicting the "Handwriting on the Wall", done by Mrs. Stuart Fletcher of St. Petersburg, between the ages of 80 and 84 years. Other highlights were a stop at Natural Bridge in Virginia, which was done at eventide when lighting effects and a full moon added their beauty to "Nature's Cathedral". Here Lowell Thomas narrates the story of the Creation which is interspersed with "The Lord's Prayer" and other hymns, concluding with "Perfect Day". And the concluding visitation in the Shenandoah Valley was a trip through Shenandoah Caverns, a mile-long underground trip, reached by elevator.
